Drilled is a new podcast that attacks fossil fuel companies over so-called “climate liability.” Here’s what you need to know.

Drilled is funded in part by a “generous grant” from the Institute for Governance & Sustainable Development (IGSD).

Richard Wiles runs IGSD’s Center for Climate Integrity, which operates the Pay Up Climate Polluters PR campaign, pressuring cities and states to hold fossil fuel companies liable for climate change.

Richard Wiles produces Drilled.

Rockefeller Brothers Fund has given over $1.6 million to the Institute for Governance & Sustainable Development.
